Hirohito Now Regent Of Japan Owing To Failing Brain Power Of Emperor

Princes Of Blood And The Elder Statesmen Meet To Decide On Elevat on Of Crown Prince To The Throne

Crown Prince Hirohito

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 25.—An Imperial promulgation issued today announces that the Crown Prince has been installed in the Regency. The Royal Prince Kanin is taking up the duty of guiding.

The dispatch from Tokio means that the Crown Prince Hirohito takes over the duties of Emperor of Japan. The Emperor, Yoshihito, has been ill for some time, suffering from a disease of the brain.

Yoshihito Harunomiya, 132nd Mikado to occupy the throne of Jimmu Tenno, fabled descendant of the sun goddess and founder of the Japanese empire, is known as the most popular emperor Japan ever had, perhaps because he is better known to his subjects than any predecessor ever has been.

Yoshihito is democratic to a degree, considered almost revolutionary, although to Occidental eyes his person still is hedged about with mystery and formality unknown to the western world. With the picture of Japanese enterprise ever spread before the eyes of the world, the person of the emperor remains in Japan sacred to the point of divinity.

Yoshihito was born August 31, 1879, and when eight years old was nominated by his father, the Emperor Mutsuhito, as heir apparent to the throne. Back of this fact lies a peculiar custom of the Japanese royalty. Yoshihito is not the son of the empress, but the third son of Yanigawara, a handmaid, one of the eight princesses of noble blood who became members of the emperor's household when it became apparent that no offspring was to be expected from the empress.

His nomination by his father made his title to the throne absolute.

Under the old Japanese system this nomination was not to be regarded as a guarantee of happiness. Many of the 121 mikados who preceded Yoshihito either abdicated or committed suicide to escape the penalties of prominence. Under a stingy Shogun more than one emperor sat shivering and fireless, and actually lacked the necessaries of life. Mutsuhito's innovations changed many of the conditions which had made the life of mikado unbearable, but there remained many traditional restrictions, which even his iron will could not break down.

After his nomination as heir-apparent, Yoshihito was sent to the Peers school, in charge of General Nogi. The young prince there pursued his studies until the emperor deemed him ready to be turned over to tutors. He then took up studies under Prince Arisugawa, Prince Oyama, Prince Ito, Count Oku, and General Fukushima. They trained him in military and naval affairs, politics, religion and the Chinese classics. The tutors were appointed personally by Mutsuhito and labored sincerely to train Yoshihito according to other moral ideas than those which for centuries had prevailed in Japan.

HABITS REGULAR

Due to this early rigorous training, Yoshihito adopted habits of uniform regularity. He rose at 6, took breakfast alone at 8, from 8:20 to 12 attended to state affairs, and attired in a gorgeous military uniform at mid-day lunched with the empress, resumed state affairs in the afternoon but always in civilian dress toward evening read the Chinese classics. He invariably took dinner with the empress when health and state affairs permitted, and in the evening continued his reading of the classics, composed poetry, played billiards, and pursued his photographic and other experiments.

Yoshihito succeeded to the throne when his father died in 1912, but was not crowned until 1915. For the first time in the history of Japan, the people were permitted to witness the sacred ceremony of crowning the son of heaven. There were 30,000 poems written in his honor.

This was Yoshihito's first step in democratic destruction of precedents. Mutsuhito, despite his advancement in many directions, kept a horror of photographers and electric lights. His great palace remained lighted by oil lamps during his lifetime.

Yoshihito immediately caused electric lights and complicated pushbutton system to be installed. He took photography as a fad and dabbled in experiments in electric lighting. He went in for Occidental sports, became an expert player at billiards and was an ardent motorist and motorcyclist.

These departures from tradition, instead of weakening his hold on the people, made them more ardent in their admiration and intensified their religious reverence for the emperor. Poor health which afflicted him from the time he ascended the throne, prevented Yoshihito from even more free mingling with his people.

AIDS THE POOR

He celebrated his coronation by a decree of amnesty to many prisoners and gave $500,000 to charity. During a great rice shortage he gave $3,000,000 to a fund to provide food for the poor.

How large a part Yoshihito has played in the policies of his administration it is difficult if not impossible for an outsider to approximate. He announced at the beginning of his reign that he would try to carry forward his father's "era of enlightenment" and declared his friendship to western nations and western ideals. Whether Japan's policy in Shantung, Korea, Siberia and the California land question in any degree mirrored his opinions is known only to the chiefs of his government. Mutsuhito, vigorous in mind and body almost to the extent of pugnacity, made himself felt as a force in government, even though he remained hedged about with traditional mystery. Yoshihito, better known to his people than his father, may have been more or less forceful, but the outside world cannot gauge him in this respect.

TOOK SIDE OF ALLIES

Yoshihito is credited with using great personal strength in swinging Japan into the struggle against Germany. On this subject his utterances were more numerous than they have been on any other. He took a determined stand and threw Japan into the struggle with a definite policy of taking care of Germany in the Pacific.

After the kaiser had suffered some disappointments, he made approaches to Yoshihito. It was revealed that he had offered to conclude peace on any terms affecting the Pacific which Yoshihito might demand. He offered to support any pretentions in the Orient set up by Japan, but Yoshihito flatly declined these proposals. The mikado declared in a public announcement that the defeat of Germany would be Japan's proudest day and that he was with the Allies to the victorious finish regardless of the cost or sacrifice.

This was the strongest and the last manifestation of personal strength by Yoshihito. How well Japan played the part assigned by the Allies is a matter of current history. What was accomplished is credited to the force of the emperor.

GREETING TO NATIONS

With the close of the war he exchanged courteous greetings with the rulers of the other nations with which Japan had been allied and again went into retirement.

Ways Kept Hot With New Keel Of Cruiser After Kaga Is Launched

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Tokio, Nov. 25.—While the Japanese delegates at Washington are striving to obtain a tonnage ratio of seventy percent of the present strength, the Japanese naval authorities here at home are speeding up their battleship construction program.

Construction was started on the giant battlecruiser Atago with a tonnage of 44,000 displacement at the Kawasaki dockyard at Kobe this week. Five days after the superdreadnaught Kaga left the ways the first rivet of the Atago's keel was driven by Managing Director Yamamoto of the dockyard company with appropriate Shinto ceremonies.

This starts the building of the third battle cruiser in the eight-eight project.

The naval authorities ordered the finishing touches on the Kaga which was launched last week to be speeded up and have doubled the number of workmen on the vessel.

The launching of the Kaga, a sister ship to the Tosa by the Mitsubishi Dockyard at Nagasaki has been scheduled for December 18. As soon as the slip is vacated by the Tosa, the ways will be used to start construction on the battlecruiser Takao, a sister ship to the Atago.

Old Black Joe Wanders Back For Shrine Show

Only once in a blue moon, according to some wise old philosopher do men have the opportunity to dress in fine silks and satin and parade before the crowd, but last night at the second edition of the Shrine Minstrel there was ample reason, the show was more than a little better than on the opening night for all the rough spots had been polished off and a finely finished batch of comedy was presented to the audience.

"Old Black Joe" and the days of the old time South were brought back into our modern times for the Nomads of Shrineland, and according to the seers and prophets of the order, will be here again tonight for the closing show.

Tickets for the Shrine Minstrel show of this evening will be on sale in the Astor House lobby after Moutrie's closes this noon. There has been a heavy run on tickets and those intending to take in this excellent performance are advised to make their reservations without delay.

Victims Of Russian Famine Wait For Food Or Death

CABLE dispatches from the famine-stricken districts of Russia have told of the hardships endured by the poor. But stories could not be told in more convincing style than that of the above photographs. At the right is a young girl, so weak that she can hardly hold her head up. She was photographed beneath a train window, pleading for food from foreign correspondents at Samara, the heart of the famine-swept districts of Soviet Russia. The infant in its mother's lap on the left is crying for food. This unfortunate kiddie is with its mother in the refugee camp on the banks of the Volga River, at Samara, where thousands wait for food or death.

ENGINEERS DECIDE HOW HARBOR WILL BE IMPROVED

Society Gives Dinner For Committee; Findings To Be Announced Soon

At a dinner given last night at the Shanghai Club by the Engineering Society of China for the members of the international consultative committee to the Whangpoo Conservancy Board it was disclosed that a decision virtually has been reached on the great question of how the port of Shanghai is to be improved.

The consultative committee, it is now known, is engaged in drafting its findings, which are the result of surveying the ten years of work on the big project that has been done by the Whangpoo Conservancy Board under Mr. H. von Heidenstam, Engineer-in-Chief. Which of the various plans that have been proposed in recent years for the general improvement of the harbor that has won the approval of the international committee is not yet known, but by those who are well informed, it is accepted that the port development is to be done here at Shanghai itself and the proposals that contemplated harbor development at points more or less remote from the city have been set aside.

SOLVE FLATS PROBLEM

One intimation given is that the plan to be recommended will involve certain unique engineering operations by which a deep water channel, adequate for vessels of all drafts, will be made from the open sea through the Fairy Flats together with a supplementary deepening of the channel of the Whangpoo. It is thought that the full report of the consultative committee will be ready for publication by the middle of next month, if not earlier.

Upwards a hundred persons were present at the dinner last night. Mr. I. Tuxford, president of the Engineering Society of China, presided and the guests of honor, the members of the international consultative committee, were Maj.-Gen. W. M. Black, who was Chief of Engineers of the United States Army while the war was in progress, representing America; Mr. P. G. Hornell, consulting engineer of the Hydraulic Engineering Bureau of Stockholm, representing the Chinese Chambers of Commerce; Mr. P. Ott de Vries, former head of the Department of Public Works of the Netherlands, representing Holland; Mr. L. Perrier, for 20 years engineer on the Suez Canal; Dr. Isamu Hirol, representing Japan, and Mr. F. Palmer, consulting engineer of the Port of London Authority, representing Great Britain.

MR. TUXFORD'S ADDRESS

In his introductory address Mr. Tuxford said that the Engineering Society of China from time to time in the past had entertained guests noteworthy in the profession, but he said the body never before had had the honor of welcoming such a distinguished group as represented in the membership of the international consultative board, and he added that the Whangpoo

Auto Show Will Surprise Even The Most Sanguine

Shanghai's first Auto Show will open its doors to the public today at noon when Madame Wilden, the wife of the French Consul General will release the two French flags that guard the entrance to the pavilions. The opening ceremony will be attended by a guard of honor under the command of Captain Fiore, Chief of the French Police, and H. E. Hsu Yuen, Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs. The guests of the reception committee will be taken for a tour of the various exhibits.

Last night the finishing touches of the illuminations were made and the exhibit spaces cleared of all debris, the exhibit cars given their final polish and the attendants instructed in their duties to cope with the crowds that are expected for the opening day.

Manager Arthur West announced yesterday that he had made arrangements with the Shanghai Gas Company for the installation of one hundred gas radiators in the dancing pavilion. A large force of men will be placed at work today to connect the radiators and it is expected that the pavilion will be comfortably warmed in time for the big dinner tonight. The heaters are to be placed at fifteen foot intervals around the dancing casino.

The installation of the heaters was necessary, Manager West said, in order that visitors to the Show would have every opportunity to enjoy themselves in comfort and without fear of the chill evenings.

In the meantime, Chairman C. J. White of the Building committee ordered his contractors to put another thickness of matting on the outside of the pavilion. With these precautions there is no doubt that the big crowd that is to visit the show tonight will be able to dine and dance in comfort.

One of the most striking exhibits, one that will attract a great deal of attention, automobile men say, is a miniature fountain of bubbles curling over a plaster temple. The fountain is in the Typhoon Test waterproofing exhibit and aside from being an interesting test, the fountain is a very cleverly constructed mechanical novelty.

The Sunbeam car which has been upended will give everyone that has had the longing to "get out and get under" their first real opportunity to inspect the "innards" of an automobile. The lower casing of the Sunbeam, which has been propped up on one end, has been removed so that working parts of the engine and transmission may be inspected.

The Honigsberg exhibit in the center of the pavilion has a variety of richly decorated and finished cars, grouped in a floor space that has been arranged after the fashion of a drawing room.

The world's most expensive car, the Rolls-Royce is represented with a late model, and over in another very important exhibit, and one that will attract a great deal of interest is shown the world's most inexpensive—the Ford.

After the opening ceremony the doors will be open to the public, and the exhibition will remain open until 2 a.m. According to the program as announced, the doors will be open from 3 p.m. to 1 a.m. on all days except Saturdays when the limit will be stretched to 2 o'clock.

A special Chinese day will be staged at the Show on Tuesday, and on this occasion 100 boys and girls from the Tioh Wah children orphanage, a charity supported by several influential foreigners in Shanghai, will be present. The management of the Auto Show said yesterday that they were making every effort to extend every possible courtesy to the Chinese visitors to the Show on every day that it is open not only on the special day set apart for them.

Music for dancing will be provided by the Municipal Band and the Carlton Orchestra. The catering in the pavilion will be in charge of the Carlton Cafe staff.

An informal inspection of the exhibits was made last night by prominent automobile men who have seen the best of the auto carnivals in Europe and America, and according to their statements last night, the success of the project is assured and well deserved.

There would seem to be every reason to suppose that music-lovers who are present at the Automobile Show Entertainment tomorrow evening will thoroughly enjoy themselves. We have not the complete program to hand, but we learn that Mrs. Allison will sing Hadyn Wood's "Bird of Love Divine" and Tosti's "Good-Bye," and that she will be accompanied by Mr. D. J. Donne at the piano.

Mrs. Lyle is to sing "The String of Pearls" by H. Lyall Phillips and "When Thou art Far" by Landon Ronald Schumann's "The Two Grenadiers" will be rendered by Mr. H. E. Muriel and Mr. Speelman will oblige with "Un Peu d'Amour" and "The Sunshine of my Smile."

A number of other performers have willingly placed themselves at Mr. Friedman's disposal, but the dates when they will appear have not yet been settled.

Briand's Speech Stirs Conference As Demand For Protection—Query On Submarine Still Is Unsettled While Army, One Is Chaos

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Washington, Nov. 24.—The Conference, having accepted the American proposal that a committee be appointed to study China's internal affairs, such as finances and especially the customs' problem, has made the first step toward entering into the details on which depends the practical application of the general principles laid down by Ex-Secretary Elihu Root, whereon the conferees hitherto have concentrated their attention.

No official statements have been made, but it is reported from sources deemed reliable that definite progress was made today toward concrete results in the Chinese problem.

Admiral Baron Kato has expressed himself as willing to discuss Manchuria.

The big issue now is whether America will insist on a discussion of the past as well as the future or whether she will accept as legal all past agreements with China and only give guarantees for the future. It is understood that most powers prefer the status quo stand.

Foreign friends are putting pressure on the Chinese to take an imperative position and set forth concrete demands, forcing the issue to an immediate test as to what the powers really propose to grant. Otherwise it is feared, they assert that the Conference will adjourn after repeating the former abstract formula.

The naval disarmament question is wholly in the hands of experts who, reports say, are wrangling manfully over the details although they have "argeed in principle," to Secretary Hughes first pronunciamento. Japan still is insisting on 70 percent ratio, thus including the Mutsu and probably other battleships or battle cruisers.

Certain well informed circles state that Japan intends to persist in this stand, but it is believed this is only for effect and that Japan will yield if America is firm enough.

Submarines are still in dispute. The aftermath of Premier Briand's speech is a strong undercurrent of British and French friction.

CLASH OVER CHINA

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 24.—According to the Associated Press the first sharp clash of opinions at the Conference occurred today in the Far Eastern Committee in consequence of the Chinese challenging the British view of the concrete application of the four general principles embodied in Mr. Elihu Root's resolution.

A momentary flurry was caused by the French delegates pointedly asking the Chinese on what authority they presumed to be the spokesmen of the whole of China in view of the Cantonese Government's objection. Curiously the Japanese suggested that they would not oppose the examination of the famous Twenty-One Demands and the Sino-Japanese Treaty.

FRANCE CHINA'S FRIEND

Paris, Nov. 23.—At an interview in Washington with a representative of the Matin, M. Albert Sarraut stated that China in the debates on the Far Eastern problem could rely on France as her most true and sincere friend, adding that the principle of the revision of concessions and special privileges granted by the former Chinese regime was now a settled matter.

STRIKES JARRING NOTE

London, Nov. 25.—M. Briand's attitude at the Washington Conference is gravely preoccupying the delegates as, if the French policy aims at securing a paramount army and a large navy and air force, the French policy must profoundly affect the whole question of disarmament.

Although Conference opinion is generally sympathetic toward the French desire to maintain a strong army owing to their special position, it is unable to appreciate the reason for M. Briand's demand for a powerful flotilla of submarines, which, taken in conjunction with the reported French desire to possess a fleet equal to Japan's, has struck the only jarring note in the Conference.

French circles claim that M. Briand has proved his point but it is more likely that his success consists in sidetracking the ques-

HELLO! LONG DISTANCE! IS COMING SOON TO SHANGHAI

New Phone Service Is Planned From City To The Ming Tombs

Plans for a modern long distance telephone system connecting this city with Nanking and later the construction of a loop system of telephones to Tientsin and Harbin, giving direct communication with all the principal cities are rapidly reaching the point where the actual construction work will start.

The equipment for the installation of the phones and the central stations has arrived in Shanghai from Japan where the phones were constructed in the factories of the Western Electric Company, an American factory that is producing the same type of phones used in the United States.

The entire work of the construction, with the exception of the technical work of installing the intricate central circuit stations will be under the supervision of the Chinese Government.

According to the present plans, the line will run from Shanghai to Soochow, then to Wusih, Changchow and Nanking, connecting with government lines there. Later on the plans include the construction of a through telephone system from Peking to Tientsin and Harbin, and a line connecting with Shanghai.

A portion of the lines which will make up the system are under private ownership and according to the statements of the officials interested, there has been some delay in reconciling the differences between the private companies and the government.

The China Electric Company, agents for the Western Electric Company, were the importers of the telephone equipment and will have the installation of the central stations in their charge. The manager of the company, Mr. Long, said yesterday that he expected the actual work to start in about two months.

Official Here Denies Report Of Arrest

A report and an emphatic denial of the arrest of Mr. Yeh Kung-cho, former Minister of Communications, were given circulation here yesterday. The report as carried in the Chinese newspapers was to the effect that the former Cabinet member had been taken into custody by the Peking gendarmerie on a charge of circulating rumors regarding the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications.

The denial was issued by Mr. Sah Fuh-mou, Director of the Shanghai Bureau of the Chinese Government High Industrial Commission and managing director of the Chinese Government Mint here. The report, he declares, is an absolute fabrication.

lion of land armaments and persuading the world that the demilitarisation of Europe is past praying for.

ASK WHAT IS "CHINA"

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Nov. 25.—Most of the vernacular press this morning comments on the Root resolution regarding the principles underlying the policy of the Powers in connection with China and record approval at the step taken, but the Jiji and many others say that in order to avoid unnecessary complications in the future, the Powers must first and foremost define the exact meaning of the term "China," on which depends the practical solution of the Chinese problem.

The agreement, says the Nichi Nichi, though not new in spirit, is more significant because the fundamental principles therein stated are more firmly established. It points out that it can be applied to the future only by not disturbing the present interests of the powers in China.

DEBT PARLEY NEXT?

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Nov. 24.—A telegram from Washington to the Matin states that according to a high American official, if the Conference is successful, the United States will shortly afterwards convoke an International commercial and financial conference to discuss the question of German reparations.

This official added that the United States opposes the discussion of Allied debts to the United States in the Conference. As it is a question which can only be decided between the United States and each one of the nations concerned.

The Temps understands that the attitude of Japan on naval armaments and the different questions which interest her will become more accomodating. Japan is said to be inclined to accept the proportion for capital ships but on this point, statements are contradictory.

On the other hand the Japanese Government is said to be inclined to abandon the Anglo-Japanese Alliance on condition that it is replaced by a tripartite alliance into which the United States enters, but the difficulty consists in the fact that America will not hear or speak of such an alliance and another method is being looked for to compensate Japan for the damage she would suffer by the abandonment of the alliance with Britain.

Moreover, Japan is said to have decided to maintain the status quo of naval bases in the Pacific to which she at first raised objections. Japan considers that the moment has not yet come to efface herself from China. It is also said that the Japanese Government will agree to retire from Saghalien after receiving satisfaction for the murder of the Japanese missionaries.

PRESS CRITICS HEARD

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 25.—The resolution presented by Mr. Elihu Root and adopted by the Far Eastern Committee is looked upon here as implying nothing uncommon but is quite compatible with Japan's policy towards China. As to its interpretation, some newspapers set forth arguments that the second item of the resolution may be interpreted in two ways, positive and negative.

According to the press, if it is the former, it is to be regarded as a preliminary step to the internationalisation of China or putting her under the Four Powers' Consortium. The newspapers oppose such international control.

Referring to the fourth item, the papers argue that it is a remarkable fruit of the Far Eastern Conference in the way of breaking through the crux of the Chinese question that Mr. Root, in his resolution, has prohibited any action on the part of the Powers such as is liable to violate the principle in which the Powers are bound to esteem the integrity and independence of China.

LONDON IS SORRY

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

London, Nov. 24.—The press generally is disappointed because the United States is not following Great Britain's lead in the suspension of naval construction.

British newspaper correspondents in Washington are urging the government to support the United States in opposing the Japanese demands for an increase in relative naval strength. Some declare that the situation is delicate and say that the tone of Washington's stand is peremptory.

In the matter of China, however, correspondents say that the atmosphere is excellent. The Daily Press in an article on the naval phase of the Conference, says: "The keynote of hope is that Japan will yield. Any nation obstructing peace deserves and will receive the censure of the world. Should any nation offend in this respect, they will be condemned as was Germany. The world is surfeited with Prussianism."

The Times in a leader asks whether Japan will include Manchuria and Mongolia in its liberal attitude toward China. Regarding the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, the Times asks whether Japan does not think it wise to abandon the pact in view of the fact that an Anglo-American war is impossible and in the event of a Japanese-American war some British dominions would probably find it impossible to avoid taking sides with the United States, which would mean that the entire empire would be involved in war. The Times, however, emphasises that the alliance contains no threat against America.

Engineers Reach Decision For Improvement Of Harbor

Conservancy Board was to be congratulated in having obtained the aid of such authorities in the big work that had been undertaken.

Mr. Tuxford briefly reviewed the history of the Engineering Society of China from the time in 1901 when it was founded as the Shanghai Society of Engineers and Architects with a membership of 86. He said in 1912 the organisation became the Shanghai Society of Engineers with a membership of 100 and in 1913 by reason of rapid increase of membership it ceased to be a purely local organisation and took on its present character of a international body with members all over China and with a membership roll of 230.

GENL. BLACK RESPONDS

General Black who responded said the Engineering Society of China was to be congratulated upon its growth and the things it had achieved. He deprecated the fact that he had been chosen as spokesman for the consultative committee and illustrated this point with a story which brought rounds of laughter.

He spoke of the value of gatherings of the kind for the engineering profession when all were mutually aided by the common exchange of ideas and he spoke at some length concerning the history of engineering.

He pointed out that engineers of the past did not have many of the facilities that are available today and he spoke in particular of the vast achievements of the engineers of a past day in China who left behind marvellous works. In this connection he mentioned China's great network of canals, its pagodas and temples. Certainly, he said, though their names are lost and their works only mark incidents of certain dynasties, China had its great men in the engineering profession in ancient times.

He dwelt upon the different conditions that engineers must meet in China, speaking in particular of the common use here of bamboo, a building material the uses of which are more or less unknown in America.

Referring to the work on which the consultative board has been engaged in recent weeks he said that the problems encountered had been most interesting and he gave unstinted praise to the men of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board who had prepared the way for the present work, saying that by reason of their achievements all details of information needed had been at hand.

He said the work of the consultative committee was about finished and that shortly the result would be announced.

Mr. Palmer, British member of the committee, was the next speaker and he said the members of the committee were gratified to be the guests of such a body as the Engineering Society of China. He spoke of the value to be gained through the formation of engineering bodies telling something of the character of engineering organisations in England and in particular he suggested as an advisable move some form of international organisation, a project for which he would be glad to lend aid.

Mr. de Vries then spoke briefly and in particular he referred to the original work of improving Shanghai's harbor, telling how the well remembered Dutch engineer, Mr. J. de Rijka, first was called to Shanghai in 1876 and again twenty years later for the same object, and a third time in 1916. It was de Rijka who had laid the foundation for the big undertaking now contemplated, he said and he added that Mr. von Heidenstam was a worthy successor of de Rijka.

Other brief addresses were made by Mr. Perrier, Mr. Hornell and Doctor Hiroi. Doctor Hiroi in expressing thanks for the hospitality extended to the committee remarked that he was more or less barred from speaking by bronchitis of a form for which Shanghai is famous, adding that his physician had decreed that he might use his throat only for the purpose of taking nourishment. He said, however, that he would take home with him the happiest memory of the present pleasant hour.

In a short address that he gave Mr. von Heidenstam said that the visit of the consultative committee was a milestone in the course of the great work on which the Whangpoo Conservancy Board has been engaged. In connection with the improvement planned for Shanghai's harbor he suggested that if the largest vessels are to be able to reach Shanghai it may fall out that the obstacle of shallow water may not be met with here near Shanghai, but it may be encountered at the Suez or Panama canals.

Before he concluded speaking Mr. von Heidenstam proposed the health of the oldest member of the Engineering Society of China, Mr. John Prentice, who gave a witty and interesting response, in which he reviewed the progress that has been made under his eyes in Shanghai in the 52 years that he has been here.

Mr. C. Harper, Vice President of the Engineering Society of China was then called and in the course of his brief remarks he spoke of the necessity of general co-operation of all interests in Shanghai to carry through the great port improvement project.

At the request of those present General Black was again called to tell something of work that had been done in France by the American engineers and he reviewed this big undertaking explaining that America's engineering force grew from 250 officers and 5,000 enlisted men while the war was in progress to 13,000 officers and 200,000 enlisted men who patriotically carried out the big task assigned to them just as the engineers of Britain and France had carried out their work in the great struggle.

He told in detail of the work that had been done while the war was being fought and said if it had not been for the efforts of the engineers of the armies of the allies the war could not have been brought to a successful conclusion and in closing he voiced an eloquent tribute to the engineering profession.

THE FIFTH WISE MAN

"I'll wait a while before buying my life insurance," said the first wise man. He had to pay 15 per cent more because the cost had increased.

"Next year will be just as good," said the second wise man. He died six months later.

"I'm in no hurry—I can get insurance any time," said the third wise man. He discovered his error later, when the doctor told him he was uninsurable.

"I'll have more money for insurance in a couple of years," said the fourth wise man. But a reckless chauffeur ran over him, and the day when he can buy insurance has passed.

Now there was a FIFTH man and he bought his Life Insurance from the Asia Life Insurance Company when he had the chance. He isn't worrying any. Neither is his family.

Russian Opera Co.

That tuneful opera of the last decade, the Dollar Princess, was delightfully presented last night by the Russian Light Opera Company at the Apollo Theater. The title role was taken by Miss Surikoba who scored heavily in her rendition of several delightful songs, while Mr. Bravin playing the part of Alfred Verboorg was at his best in the duet with his sweetheart. Other members of the company with notable roles were Misses Karalola, Dagmaroba, and Raskzoba; Messrs. Goreff, Bravin, Grebroff and Victoroff.

The company not only sings but acts and is worthy the large audience that greeted their second opera last night. The ballet alone was worth the price of admission.

Socony XI Beats Soochow 2nd Team

(China Press Correspondence)

Soochow, Nov. 24.—The Socony football team of Shanghai defeated the Soochow University second team in a decidedly one-sided game on Thanksgiving Day with a score of 10 to 0.

The Socony players had the advantage in weight, speed, and knowledge of the game. But the local team fought stubbornly in spite of all their handicaps, and proved themselves to be real sportsmen.

A. Sofoulis of the visiting team was the star player of the day, and is considered by some as the best dribbler and groundgainer seen on the local grounds this season. The following men scored: A. Sofoulis 4, A. G. McKerrow 4, C. Sofoulis 1, and J. Peterson 1.

CELEBRATE CENTENARY

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Nov. 24.—The Ampere centenary was celebrated today at the Sorbonne. M. Millerand presided.

When Is Road Not In Town, He Asks

A test case, arising from the hearing of a summons issued against Charlesworth P. Rakusen for a minor violation of traffic regulations will be carried to His Magisties Supreme Court for China when a full court will hear the appeal of the Shanghai Municipal Council, covering an argument over the jurisdiction of the Council on road regulations in the settlement.

It appears from the appeal, that the right of the Council to regulate auto traffic on the municipal roads has been questioned by a recent dismissal of the suit against Rakusen and the Full Court has been called into session to decide the issue—which arose from a misplaced motor tail lamp.

in relation to articles of food, the quality is of greater relative importance than the price. A smaller quantity of the best quality is, from a health point of view, more beneficial than a large quantity of inferior quality.

Stimulants are suspect now because the war has produced a world shortage of matured spirits. It is better for you to drink one glass of matured spirits than any quantity of immature spirit.

SLAYERS SENT TO THE ARSENAL FOR EXECUTION

Two Chinese murderers and robbers were sentenced to be sent to the Arsenal to be shot, and four of their companions were given jail sentences of from two to five years by British Assessor Hutchison and Magistrate Loh in the Mixed Court yesterday.

The men were charged with the murder of Tsang Woong-sz, an old woman, in a village off Yangtszepoo Road, on October 28, when they stole jewelry and clothing valued at $300, and further with the attempted murder of one of their gang whom they thought was going to "squeal" to the police.

The old woman was strangled to death in her bed with a cord after the men had gained an entrance to her home by making a hole in the wall.

They were charged with the crime after clever work by Detective-Sergt. Robertson who gave a vivid reconstruction of the crime, aided by photographs, diagrams and the confessions of the accused after he had pinned the crime on them.

Earlier the men had trapped Chui Siau-mo a former member of their gang in a house in Chapei by inviting him to a two-day gambling and wine party presided over by the "queen" of the gang, one of the robber's sweethearts. From the house they went to a grave mound near the Ward bridge, Yangtszepoo, where they said stolen property had been hidden.

Chui was told they were too early and laid down to sleep a few minutes as he was quite drunk, and awoke when three of the gank attacked him with meat choppers severely slashing him about the face and neck and cutting off part of a hand. He fought back, crying for help, and a Sikh policeman came to his assistance.

The prisoners admitted the evidence in the prisoner's dock.

WHAT NOW? IS RUSSIA'S QUERY TO RUMANIANS

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Nov. 20.—In reply to Soviet Russia's recent note about the extradition of the Russian bandit leader, Mahno, and about the question of Bessarabia and navigation on the River Dniester, the Rumanian Government has sent to the Russian Government a reply, stating that it is not sure whether Mahno was one among those deported from Rumania or whether he is still in the concentration camps of Rumania or elsewhere.

As to the Russian province, Bessarabia, which has been ceded to Rumania by the peace treaty, the Rumanian Government states that this question has been settled and does not require further solution. The only question which will be discussed by the Rumanian Government is that of navigation on the River Dniester.

The Russian Government has dispatched another note in reply to Rumania, pointing out that neither Soviet Russia nor Ukrainia has sanctioned the annexation of Bessarabia and that the plebiscite taken by the Rumanians was illegal in view of the absence of representatives of the Soviet Government at the time of the voting.

The note ridicules the alleged ignorance of the Rumanian Government as to the whereabout of Mahno. The Russian Government blames the Rumanian Government for permitting the organisation of Petliura's bands in Rumanian territory. Therefore the Russian Government does not believe the assurance of the Rumanian Government that it has peaceful intentions towards Russia and Ukrainia.

A sewing party for the benefit of the forthcoming Christmas Fair will be held at Headquarters three times weekly up to December 20. These will begin on Monday next and will take place on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Tea and biscuit will be served at 10:30 and onwards. Contributions of any scraps of silk, satin, muslin, brocade, etc., will be most acceptable and any member having a variety of sewing silks is invited to bring them with her.

Former Canton Officials On Trial In Mixed Court

Three former high officials of the Canton government were charged in the Mixed Court yesterday with having kidnapped Kung Chen, ex-Minister of Finance of the Canton government, and held him prisoner in a house at 211 Weihaiwei Road while they attempted to force him to pay them $200,000. British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li heard the case.

Only two of the men, Moh Yung-sin, a former Tuchun, and Kwo Chun-sun, former advisor-in-chief to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, appeared in the prisoners dock as the third charged, General Lee Keng-yuen has not been arrested.

Mok and Kwo were both released on Tls. 3,000 shop security and the case remanded for a special hearing after argument by Mr. Philip W. Goldring, counsel for Kung Chen, and Mr. J. Em. Lemiere, counsel for the three accused on the amount of bail.

Kung Chen has been making his home at 720 Chungking Road since he was driven out of Canton by Dr. Sun Yat-sen in the civil war eight months ago, according to his testimony when warrants were asked for yesterday.

KIDNAPPED AFTER DINNER

On November 17 he was invited to dinner at 211 Weihaiwei Road, which was attended by seven or eight prominent Chinese politicians, including the three defendants. During the dinner all was friendly, but as soon as the meal was finished they demanded that he pay them $200,000 before he would be released. He protested to no avail and was surrounded by a guard and held prisoner for two days, during which time an attempt was made to steal his clothes.

He was finally forced to write a letter, he testified, in which he instructed his brother in Hongkong to pay the men the amount they demanded.

Before the letter was dispatched an opportunity arose which enabled him to escape by a clever ruse. He requested the privilege of telephoning to Mok, one of the alleged conspirators, and an ex-Tuchun. Instead of calling Mok's number he telephoned a friend, Tam Tu Chun, ex-Tuchun of Hunan.

"Hello Tu Chun," he said, and then explained his predicament. The guards, thinking he was talking to Tuchun Mok allowed the conversation to continue without interruption.

Tam Tu Chun immediately gathered other friends, and accompanied by police, went to Kung Chen's rescue. None of the alleged conspirators were in the house at the time, but Mok and Kwo were arrested yesterday morning by Detective Sergt. Kiloh after warrants for their arrest had been granted by Mr. Blackburn and Magistrate Li.

CLAIM LEE ESCAPED

During the hearing Mr. Goldring, counsel for Kung Chen, protested that because the application for warrants had been heard in open court, the news had been printed by one of the Chinese newspapers and that General Lee had escaped.

Mr. Lemiere declared that he was sure that if General Lee knew there was a warrant out for his arrest he would appear.

Mr. Lemiere, in asking for a lower bail than the Tls. 5,000 suggested by Mr. Goldring, declared that the entire case was political.

"That may be so," Mr. Blackburn said, "but when these men come here they must leave their politics behind."

The formal charges against General Lee, ex-Tuchun Mok and ex-Advisor Kwo state that he did:

1. Unlawfully threaten the complainant by putting him in fear of injury to his person, liberty, reputation and property.

2. Unlawfully and without authority arrest and imprison the complainant.

3. By violence and threats attempt to take away property, to wit, the sum of $200,000, against the will of the complainant and with intent to make it their own.

The case was remanded for a special hearing.

Asia Banking Corporation

November 25, 1921

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 3-8d. in London yesterday.

It being a holiday in New York no quotation has been received from there, but the London-New York cross rate as given by London is 399½.

The official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday and the market throughout the day was on the easy side.

At the opening Chinese speculators sold Sterling for December delivery at 3-9 and November Sterling was done at 3-9½.

However, later in the day there were no sellers for November at better than 3-9¾ and for December at 3-8½.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars were 75¼ for November and 74¼ for December, the general tone of the market being weak.

The only information received from London is that the drop in silver there yesterday was occasioned by lack of support.

The Week's Market Report

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Piece-Goods Trade, Messrs. Noel, Murray and Company write as follows:

Cotton.—In Liverpool yesterday cotton was 90 points higher than it was on the 15th inst. viz 11.72d. for Spot Good Middings, 11.47d. for January and 11.35d. for March. Bengals were as last quoted 8.15d., but Egyptians a little easier at 20.75d. In Bombay prices have again recovered to Rs. 321 for F. G. Bengals, Rs. 397 for Fine Oomras and Rs. 457/60 for F. G. Broach. New York quotations were much firmer at 18.90 cents for Ready, 18.47 for January, 18.14 for May and 17.70 cents for July 1922.

Home Market.—Mid-October home papers report that for the last few weeks orders from China had been encouraging. Offers continued to be accepted with the result that deals had been made for this market in Greys, whites and fancies; Business had been done in yearns, no doubt doubled 42's and 60's.

The September quarter seems to have been a particularly lean one for forty three spinning companies out of 76 in Manchester were unable to pay any dividend at all and the average dividend paid by the 76 works out at 5.65 percent per annum. This is an improvement on 5.10 percent for the June quarter. The averages for the three previous quarters from September, 1920, were 25.77, 19.92 and 8.10 percent per annum.

Local Market.—If anything, there has been a very small improvement in the demand and clearances have been better. Heavy arrivals of American goods have caused competitive selling to the advantage of buyers, and mill cloth is moving off into consumption, fairly freely.

Yarn.—A few small sales of Indian 10's and 12's are reported, totalling 205 bales. Prices are cheapening. One lot of 200 bales only of Local Spinnings have been sold and 4,500 bales for retailing purposes.

Auctions.—29,698 pieces were sold at up and down prices, the tendency being mostly towards weakness. Turkey Reds again did badly, also many of the Venetians, but there was perhaps a better demand today for the latter. Clearances have been freer this week.

ROSENFELD REPORT

In their weekly cotton market report, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—During the past week there has been no decided change in the fundamental conditions of the market and fluctuations have been due principally to speculative causes. In view of the tightness of the money market, spot holders were forced to sell in order to realize cash.

Under the present circumstances, therefore, we can only reiterate that we expect the course of prices downward. It would be imprudent, however, to ignore the possibility of a turn in the tide after the Chinese New Year.

Yarn.—Since our last report, our market has been generally weak, prices having declined some two to three taels. Standard yarn at the Exchange declined four to five taels and at the close, the undertone was weak. Trading during the week was principally between Speculators.

SPUNT AND COMPANY

In their cotton market report, Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows:

China Cotton.—Prices remained steady, notwithstanding the fact of very little business transpiring during the past week but to the continued weakness in the yarn market, coupled with the ever present monetarial stringency, which shows no relaxation as yet, our market on the local staple evinced an easier undertone at the close with signs of evolving a weaker situation unless there is available sufficiency in financial support to tide holders until over the Chinese New Year holidays, and as indicated in our previous circulars purchases effected at this time will, as the season advances, prove to be profitable investment. Tone of the market, Easy.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D.,
Chicago, Ill.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D.,
Buffalo, N. Y.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D.,
Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D.,
St. Louis, Mo.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

Kansas City, Mo.

"THE GREAT MOMENT"

LOCAL HOSPITAL IS DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE SUIT

A claim for Tls. 41,386.25 is being made in the British Court against the General Hospital by Wong Kor-sing, a contractor.

The case was down for hearing yesterday morning before Assistant Judge Grain, who made an order that pleadings should be taken with an opportunity for the defendants to file a reply.

Mr. M. Reader Harris appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Ward for the Shanghai General Hospital.

The plaintiff's claim is that the General Hospital committed a breach of a building contract dated April 25, 1917 by delay in furnishing certain particulars which under a specification attached to the contract had to be furnished by the Hospital. The plaintiff also asked for an account of the balance in respect of the contract price and the extra works carried out by the plaintiff, and the payment of such sums due to the plaintiff.

Fine weather and sharp cold. Very strong winter monsoon all along our coasts. Stormy weather on the sea of Japan. The typhoon will advance towards the China Sea between Luzon and Mindanao.

The Chinese Political Stage

BY JOSEF W. HALL

ALLEGATIONS and counter-allegations, implications and intimations add to the involved nature of the case of the Bank of Communications and the Bank of China. Some Chinese financiers have discovered in the bank runs of the past week and events following a deep laid plot on the part of certain foreign authorities who are theoretically in the employ of the Chinese Government but who in actuality are above the control of their employer, to ruin the two banks which come nearest to being government depositories and have the closest connection with the Ministry of Finance.

Various motives are ascribed for such an effort. One suggestion is that it is part of a political scheme to disgrace China before the Washington Conference, and bring on perforce the international control of China's finance. This receives its plausibility from the coincidence that, as Lord Northcliffe observed in a private conversation, the runs had suddenly occurred during the most important week of the Washington Conference. Such coincidence, of course, is far from proof or even circumstantial evidence. Those who hold this theory, however, bring forward in attempt at substantiation the apparent lack of sympathy of the Customs Inspectorate-General with the difficulties of the Chinese Government and banks. This lack of sympathy they interpret to be the manifestation of malevolent intention.

The Customs authorities, they state, can adduce no good reason for their refusal to turn over at least a portion of the two to three million dollars surplus collections made under the four million dollar famine loan agreement of last fall, and under which agreement the use of customs surcharge collections over and above principal and interest on the famine relief loan is a matter for discussion between the Chinese government and the diplomatic corps.

Sir Francis Aglen has published a statement regarding the refusal of the Customs to turn over money now, which is looked upon as an explanation rather than as a reason, although the understanding at the time of the diplomatic corps' consent to the surcharge was that the entire proceeds for the year in which imposition is authorised be devoted to relief work. The government has recognised this by suggesting the endowment of a permanent relief bureau with the surplus funds. The Chinese who are wrought up over the matter and who have attempted to hold demonstrations in Peking imply that either the British Legation is backing up Sir Francis or Sir Francis is backing up the British Legation. It is certain that the government has been unable to get an order from the Diplomatic Corps for the turning over of the money, and these Chinese say that the holdup is due to His Britannic Majesty's legation.

These persons further imply that the Customs authorities are more concerned about the welfare of foreign banks now holding the surplus funds in trust than about that of the Chinese banks. They adduce as evidence of deliberate hostility the withdrawal of Customs funds from the Bank of China of Harbin and their deposit in a foreign bank. On the other side, it may be suggested that any depositor, even the Customs, would be inclined to withdraw deposits from any bank of whose security he could not be assured.

A few ways ago the vernacular press was putting the entire blame for the bank crisis on Japan. It succeeded in stirring up so much feeling that merchants have been induced to take part in reprisal by way of a run on the Peking branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank, which is going on, in a small way, today. But British shoulders are being impressed to bear a portion of the blame.

Now come an entirely different set of explanations and implications. The difficulties of the two banks are not the result of a struggle between the foreign and native bankers, or of an effort on the part of interested parties to hasten the day of international financial control in the government, but are the product of rivalry between the great Chinese political factions; between Mukden and Paotingfu. And by the same method of backwards reasoning the explainers adduce as proof of their theory the fact that both warlords now come forward as would be saviors of the distressed institutions. The acceptance of the offer of either involves, of course, control in the future. To the Oriental it appears more than plausible that the crisis through which the warlords seek advantage must have been created by the said warlords or one of them, for the purpose of obtaining such advantage. A native bank crisis could easily be manipulated by either Chang Tso-lin or Tsao Kun through the banks owned and controlled by either.

Chang Tso-lin makes his bow as the chap with the "goods." Four million dollars in silver bullion brought in railway cars to Peking and unloaded on to carts on the station platform in the capital is calculated to make a substantial impression in these days of scarcity of the white metal. Tsao Kun's proffered cheque for two million dollars looks like a scrap of paper beside it. The silver is labeled "Treasury of Fengtien Province."

Chang has let it be known through his agents that he has forty million of the "cart-wheels" in his Mukden vaults. Skeptics are willing to believe that his bullion reserve is actually half this amount. Even at that it would seem rather advisable for the Ministry of Finance to move up to Mukden.

Thanksgiving Day At Soochow

(China Press Correspondence)

Soochow, Nov. 25.—The foreigners in the various communities of Soochow observed Thanksgiving Day in as near the same manner as possible as is done in the States, with the exception of the "turkey-dinner," which of course gave place to its best substitute, the "goose-dinner."

In the afternoon a special Thanksgiving Service was held at 4:00 o'clock at the Baptist Mission Compound. This was attended by the members of all the Missions of Soochow as well the foreigners from other compounds in the city. Rev. Francis A. Cox, a member of the Episcopal Mission of Soochow, who has just recently arrived from America preached the Sermon.

In the evening there was a community dinner of the Methodist Mission and Language School combined, held in the Laura Haygood Chapel. Following the dinner a program was given by local talent. The program was under the direction of Dr. E. V. Jones, and consisted of toasts and roasts, music and singing, stunts and tricks, and a minstrel chow.

A number of Shanghai people as well as some from other cities are here for the holidays.

Bank Crisis Brings On Big Political Battle

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Nov. 23.—The rescue of the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications has developed into a political battle, fought between the leaders of the two big factions, Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun, for each is offering large sums of money to pull the banks through their present crisis, and each is struggling to get his own proposition accepted.

General Chang Tso-lin is working to get control of the banks, having stipulated that if his money is accepted, it must be on the condition that his own men come down and supervise the expenditure of the funds; while Tsao Kun, playing against this control of the banks by Chang declares that his money can be used if the banks will pay him the ordinary amount of interest.

General Chang Tso-lin has already sent his three million dollars to Peking, and deposited it in his own banks. The money arrived yesterday at the Chen Men station, and could be seen being unloaded from the cars, piled upon cars, and driven away, with one of Chang's soldiers sitting on each cart.

The money is now in the banks which Chang controls, $2,790,000 being in the Chien Ho Tai Bank and $1,300,000 in the Three Eastern Provinces Bank. Three millions are for the relief of the two banks that are going through the crisis and one million is to go to pay the troops of Chang Tso-lin in case there is difficulty in getting them paid by the Peking Government.

General Tsao Kun has already sent $2,000,000 to Peking, according to semi-official sources, and these funds are expected to arrive today.

DEMANDS SUPERVISION

Chang Tso-lin has made it a condition of his giving over the three millions to the banks, that his men be allowed free hands in supervising the use of these funds, which, in the opinion of the Chinese bankers will give him control of the banks. Tsao Kun, desiring only to check mate Chang in this game, is willing to let the banks have his money in the form of a loan on reasonable interest.

The Chinese Bankers have been holding frequent meetings to discuss the situation of the two banks and the general financial conditions of the Government, and they are strongly opposed, according to Chinese source, to Chang Tso-lin getting control of the banks in this way.

In the meeting held last evening they decided that they would not accede to the demands of the Mukden lord, and would make him the counter proposal, to accept his money if he would give up his idea of supervision, and in return for this concession will give the largest percent of interest that was given to anyone in the regime of Mr. Pan Fu, the former minister of Finance who seems to have broken all records of high rates of interest. It is not known as yet what will happen, but it is felt, that Chang will not give in and that his money will not be used. This will mean that Tsao Kun comes out on top.

NOTES AGAIN CIRCULATE

The notes of the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications were again in circulation, according to Chinese sources. The people were rather shy of the notes of the Bank of Communications, but as a result of the declaration by Mr. Tsao Yu-lin and Mr. Shen Feng-po, directors of the Bank, and the pursuasion of the police, that they were as good as those issued by the Bank of China, they have ceased to show any discrimination.

Details of the meeting on Saturday of the Bankers Association are given in the Chinese press, as well as some a subsequent meetings. Many prominent men were present at the discussion which lasted from eight in the evening to one in the morning, including the Minister of Finance, the Commander of the Peking Gendarmerie, the Chief of police, Tsao Yu-lin and Shen Feng-po, of the Bank of Communications, and the managers of twenty four banks in Peking.

At this meeting the books of the two banks that were in difficulties were thrown open and the representatives of the bankers Association declared that they were satisfied that the banks could carry on. The directors of the Bank of Communications declared that their private property was free to be used as security, in case a moratorium was declared.

BIG NOTE ISSUE

Another meeting of the Association was held on November 20, at which the issue of notes was discussed, and the total amount of the liabilities of the banks were disclosed, and according to the Chinese sources, the two banks have now in circulation in the neighborhood of $7,000,000 in notes, and further discussion and the statement of a representative of the Ministry of Finance brought out the fact that these would be available $2,000,000 from Mukden, $3,000,000 from the Tientsin and Shanghai branches of these banks, and that these funds, together with the reserve supplies of the two banks, would make it possible to redeem all the notes, without any limitation.

It was decided, according to the Chinese sources, to begin unlimited redemption of all notes, beginning today.

Senator Phelan Tells Japan To Sheath Sword

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Nov. 22.—James D. Phelan, former mayor of San Francisco and United States senator from California, has been in Peking for the last week of his first trip to the Far East.

Senator Phelan, in referring to the Washington Conference, said: "America is absolutely sincere in her proposal in regard to a limitation of armaments and that limitation will be accomplished if the other Powers agree. Nothing can prevent it except the secret expectations of succession exploitation by aggressive nations.

"The militarists of Japan," he went on, "have spread false ideas to the effect that the United States will attack Japan but there is not the remotest idea in America of attacking any nation. There is no military party in America and no desire to fight. Only very great provocation could force the United States to fight but then the country is 'Quick on the trigger.'

URGES SHEATHE SWORD

"Unless some nation, therefore, contemplates wrong-doing all of them should accept the American proposal and cut down their armaments. Sheath the sword and in American slang—'swap jack knives,' that is, trade. Japan has a large field open to her for industrial development which will support her people by giving them employment, while her merchant marine may be increased by the trade growing out of the production of manufactures and the production of raw materials. Friendly relations will promote business and the people relieved of a large measure of taxation will enjoy prosperity.

"If Japan, on the other hand, has fear of any outside aggression she should say so at the Conference and the country by which she is threatened should be made to disavow it and give adequate assurances that peace will be kept. This rule holds good in the case of every nation, including China."

Taking up the question of the position of China and the important role she plays at Washington, Senator Phelan said: "China apparently has no united purpose nor any power of organisation. She is an inert mass, vast and resourceful, she can absorb any immigration, and no invader of the country will long enjoy his spoils.

EQUAL TRADE SPHERES

"The conference should clearly define just what is meant by 'Spheres of Influence.' Equal trade opportunities open to all nations are the only spheres of influence which should be tolerated and propinquity should by no means give license to rob. It should rather mean neighborliness and mutual co-operation. Unless 'special interests' are interpreted in this spirit, that false doctrine will open the door, not to trade, but to aggression and will be a constant source of international friction."

In concluding the interview Senator Phelan touched upon the question of Oriental immigration in the United States and the relation of Asia and America.

"In America," he said, "no Oriental immigration is wanted for we are trying to maintain a republic based upon an intelligent, homogenous, and patriotic electorate. We will ignobly fail if we attempt assimilation which has been biologically condemned—half castes are generally degenerate. The alternative to this policy is class alignment on racial grounds. We already have one race problem which has dangerously weakened the principle of equality—the foundation stone of our democracy—and without this principle no free government can long survive.

"Asia has a destiny of her own. This should be worked out harmoniously and America will help by example, precept, and capital if it is desired. America seeks trade, not territory; mutual advantages, neither monopoly nor special interests."

D'Annunzio Turns The Big Guns On Dictionary

In 438 B.C., Lucius Quintius Cincinnatus forsook his plow for a sword, and then when war was over welded his sword into a plowshare. Now Gabriele d'Annunzio, the soldier, has returned to more peaceful pursuits and is reorganising the dictionary of Italian words and phrases.

"The Italian language," says the poet, "threatens to become extinct on account of the introduction of so many French words." Now that the Academy of the Crusca has been forced to abandon its lifework, that of compiling the complete Italian dictionary, D'Annunzio, in his garden of Lake Garda, has decided to take upon his shoulders the ponderous work of rooting out all French words and phrases.

Even Italians themselves will have to learn the new words, so that the financial success of D'Annunzio's new dictionary is assured. In the days of his occupation of Fiume his followers formed themselves into a band of admirers, who called themselves "Ironheads" and shaved their heads to resemble the poet's. Today there are thousands of intellectuals who, having learned the new words or rather the Italian equivalents of words derived from the French, are rendering the lives of shopkeepers and waiters miserable by insisting on calling for articles of which they are ignorant.

The other day, for instance, a smart young man entered a Roman cafe in the center of the town and called for a glass of "arzente." The waiter shrugged his shoulders and said they did not keep it, but could supply any other drink or liquor. With great patience he named many, finishing up with "cognac." The young man, with a beaming smile, pointed out that "cognac" meant French brandy, while "arzente," the old term for "fine ardent spirit," meant Italian brandy, and in future the waiter must remember this term, as all true followers of the great poet were determined to push the campaign of purifying and expurgating the French terms.

"Listen, my clever friend," he said. "You as an Italian waiter must take up our new dictionary and serve French brandy whenever an Italian calls for 'cognac,' while the Italian brandy must be called 'arzente.' For instance, in future Italian champagne will be called by its true name 'spumante' sparkling wine, and remember that a true Italian must join our league."

How D'Annunzio became interested in this new campaign is told by his friends. Recently a committee of three writers (one the editor of The Wine Growers' Courier) sought the poet in order to find out the Italian equivalent of "cognac," as firms of brandy makers had decided to issue their brands with the Italian name. These three men were chosen during the wine growers' congress and asked by the directors of the association to seek out D'Annunzio and beg him to tell them the Italian term, so that in future all Italian brandy might bear its real title.

The deputation reached the outer gates and sent in the petition, but the commandant, as he prefers to be called, was busy and refused to grant an audience. It is not the first time he has been asked to supply a name to commercial enterprises. It is due to him that the string of department stores formerly belonging to Bocconi are now called "The Rinascente," "renaissance," and this name has brought the owners fortune. Another time a dental company begged him to give them a suitable quotation to print on their label and he chose the following: "To give me credit, only smile." Of course, D'Annunzio gets royalties on the names invented, but it is not easy to get him to supply names.

By dint of much diplomacy the wine growers' representatives were received with only two days' delay. They were shown through the garden to a pergola overlooking the lake. In this thickly wooded retreat they found the commandante, who, with the traditional yell of the Arditi, "Alala," greeted his visitors and introduced his guest, Signorina Baccara, who contrary to rumor, is not his wife, as no divorce was given the poet in Fiume. Besides discussing the proper terms for cognac and champagne he asked what the world would say if he insisted on changing the present name of Florence (Firenze) into that of the time of Dante, "Fiorenza." Finally D'Annunzio sent this message to the brandy-makers of Italy: "The real name for Italian brandy, and the one which must be used, is 'arzente,' the oldest term."

It is one which has already been used for the last three centuries in Tuscany. D'Annunzio wrote out his decision, giving the manuscript to the committee, who were only too pleased with the success of their mission.

But D'Annunzio is at work not only on the dictionary. He has decided to become a wine grower himself, as a special kind of port wine has been made from the grapes grown on the slopes of the villa.

TEXACO

TEXACO CRATER COMPOUND
The Great Gear Lubricant

Texaco Crater Compound is a special lubricant for heavy gears and wire rope. It preserves gears; shields them from dust and dirt, prevents friction, and eliminates machinery noise. Use "Crater" on all heavy gears working under conditions of extreme pressure. It clings to gear teeth when nothing else will, but is fluid enough to allow free lubrication.

As a preservative for wire rope and chains, Texaco Crater Compound is invaluable. It forms a film of lubricant which protects from the action of weather, chemical fumes and contaminated water.

Wire rope and chains coated with "Crater" will last twice as long.

Gears lubricated with it will work noiselessly and more efficiently.
